

BEAUTY AND THE BEAST

When it comes to wristwatches, we keep hearing that small is beautiful, but there are still plenty of gorgeous, gargantuan timepieces out there that prove, at the end of the day, size still matters.

photographer Thomas Lovelle
fashion stylist Jo Grzeszczuk

Opposite page:
MB&F Melchior "Light" Edition in stainless steel and brass (from Marcus).

This page, left:
Dior La Mini D de Dior Precieuse with white-gold, diamond-set case and bracelet (worn reversed).

Right: MB&F HM3 "ReBel" with black-PVD white-gold case and black alligator-leather strap (from Marcus).

Purple silk dress and black patent thigh high boots, both Christian Dior; Rose Bagatelle necklace in white gold and diamond and Rose Bagatelle earrings in white gold and diamonds, both Dior Joaillerie.

Greubel Forsey GMT with red-gold case and black alligator-leather strap (from Marcus).

Dark grey polyester and silk quilted coat with black silk lapel, Antonio Berardi; kissing marquise-cut diamond and Ceylon sapphire white-gold ring and Saut d'Ange white-gold set cushion-cut diamond earrings surrounded by marquise and oval-cut diamonds, both Boghossian.

Left:
Urwerk UR-210 with titanium and red-gold case and black crocodile-leather strap (from Marcus).

Right:
Seiko Prospex Marinemaster with black hard-coated titanium and ceramic case and black silicone strap.

Black and white rayon dress, Antonio Berardi; silver Linda 105 specchio open-toe heels, Aquazzura; red carpet collection necklace in platinum and white gold set with diamonds and featuring a pear-shaped tourmaline rubellite (123.24ct), Chopard.

